Hi Andrea,

I spoke with Kelly Rollins, and wanted to get his take on the site before we send our inspection reports and letter. He plans to inspect it in the next couple days, and get back to me. I anticipate it will be the end of next week before we have a bond release letter to sign.

I am confident that we won't be releasing surety for the north dump that has some presently minor erosion, but I am still finalizing our recommendations for preventing future significant erosion. We are planning to release surety for the BLM area that was graded last year (we have their concurrence), as well as the access road to SITLA. FYI.

Thanks for the patience. Usually it doesn't take this long to get back to people. Let me know if timing becomes particularly important for you on any of this, or if you have questions.

Peter
